Applications are now open for 2021/22 Saïd Foundation scholarships

The Saïd Foundation awards fully-funded scholarships to outstanding individuals from Syria, Jordan, Lebanon and Palestine who are looking to study for a master's degree in the UK.

The Saïd Foundation has offered educational scholarships since 1984. Our scholarships programme aims to empower people through educational opportunities and is targeted towards individuals who demonstrate the potential to become leaders and drivers of change within our target countries of Syria, Jordan, Lebanon and Palestine.

Scholarships are primarily offered for one-year master's degree courses; in exceptional circumstances it may be possible to consider candidates for two-year courses. Applications for funding for PhDs/DPhils will no longer be considered.

Applications in all subject areas are considered but candidates should demonstrate how their chosen course will enable them to contribute to the development of the region.

Candidates must apply for courses at one of our UK partner universities.

Who should apply?

To be considered for a Saïd Foundation scholarship, candidates should:

- Hold Syrian, Jordanian, Lebanese or Palestinian nationality
- Hold an undergraduate degree equivalent to a UK 2:1 or higher (or be in the final year of an undergraduate degree)
- Have work and/or voluntary experience relevant to their field of study and a clear career path
- Demonstrate leadership potential in their chosen field

Candidates must also apply for a course at one of the Foundation's partner universities, meet our English language requirement and submit all required documentation. For more information please visit our website.

How to apply

Please go to our website www.saidfoundation.org/scholarships for more information on the application process and to apply. Candidates will be asked to submit a number of supporting documents, including university transcripts, a CV and three recent references, so please read the guidance carefully before starting your application.

The deadline for applications is 12:00 midday UK time on Friday 30 October 2020.
